SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

1. The barracks on the Fokto road are situated immediately on the outskirts of the town, on the north side of the road leading to Fokto. The barracks (see sketch A) cover an area of about 500 x 700 m. and are surrounded by a wire fence. The main entrance to the barracks is on the Fokto road.
2. The guard at the main gate consists partly of infantry and partly of artillery troops (identified from collar patches - see para. 6 below). There are also watch-towers.
3. Living quarters, stores, and garages for motor transport were seen. Guns were not seen, but in front of one of the garage buildings, in the open, were 8 caissons.
4. There is a radio station in a fenced-off area in the east part of the barracks (see sketch B). Building activity was in progress around the radio station and bulldozers, cranes, and concrete-mixing machines could be seen. Troops were seen working on the construction; there appeared to be only one or two civilian workers at the site.
5. On the east side of the barracks rails were stacked, as though in readiness for construction of a railway spur to the barracks.
6. Troops with the following collar patches were seen in the barracks: green with crossed-rifle symbol, green with forked-lightning symbol, red with crossed axes, red with cog wheel, hammer, and ear of wheat. Considerable troop activity was noticed in the barrack area. Trucks and cars were also in evidence.
7. One of the buildings in the barrack area is most certainly a headquarters (see sketch A no.1). The entrance to this building is guarded by a sentry with rifle. On the top of the building there is a flag and in front there is a well kept lawn. Mostly officers (who arrived by car) were seen entering the building.

8. In the southwest part of Kalocsa there is a military mill and in the same area a food store with a bakery (see sketch C). The mill has a chimney about 35 to 40 m. in height. Behind the mill there is a large U-shaped building. The sentry at the above-mentioned store wears a green collar patch. The majority of the workers are civilians and include women. At the time of observation trucks loaded with bread could be seen leaving the store. Motor-transport activity was noticed in the early hours of the morning and late in the afternoon.
9. No Soviet troops were seen in Kalocsa, though Russian writing was seen on one building.
10. On the road leading to the station there is a three-story house where the AVH are quartered. In front of this building two AVH soldiers equipped with machine pistols were on guard. Otherwise no AVH were seen in the town.
11. The former castle building of Kalocsa now houses the town hospital.
12. From the conversation of two soldiers encountered in the bus from Kalocsa to Baja, it appeared that they were members of an anti-aircraft artillery unit in Kalocsa, going on leave.

14. The key to sketch A follows:

1. Two 3-story buildings opposite each other, approximately 50 x 25/30m. Flag on westernmost building.
2. Two 2-story buildings, somewhat smaller than the buildings at 1.
3. Single-story building, approximately 45-50 x 10 m. Not flat-roofed. Many windows. The building behind it appears similar.
4. Larger single-story building with flat roof.
5. Entrance and guard-house.
6. A very large grey 4-story block which appears to be used as living quarters.
7. Building in progress, concrete mixing machines, excavators (Sztalinetz), sacks of wood, bricks, & other materials. North of the northwest corner, the construction of new airfield buildings has already begun.
8. Buildings under construction; also 3 or more curious circular buildings which are completely new (see sketch B).
